Bob and the bank say they sent the exploration bond last week (+ $12,000)-- We have the small mine permit and bond for $25,200 in place-- We have no immediate plans to mine in any event-- our disturbance in the next several months will be negligible to non existent-- We have cut no new roads-- no test pits/trenches or drill pads and disturbed no new ground (and do not intend to)--

Though our understanding of the geology sucks and the configuration of the drill plan and mine plan will need to be modified-- we are attempting to stay within the small mine plan area-- I had hoped the exploration permit would also be complete last week-- again you should have the second bond by now according to Bob--

Our work in the next 2 weeks will be exclusively within the C (where you saw us drilling) and B zones (where we parked second) which are in the middle of the small mine permit area. I am in and out of cell range on Monday-- please call Bob J 509-434-8161-- prior to doing any earth work, I will let you know and will be refining the outline of the small mine area-- likely not for a few months--
